PROFILE

I've spent the last 18 years working in SEO, mainly across agencies and consultancy, with one in-house role, helping businesses turn organic search into a genuine growth channel rather than just a reporting metric.

My work sits where technical, content, and commercial priorities meet. I've led SEO programmes for eCommerce, lead generation, and multi-site brands, often coming into situations where performance has plateaued or the foundations aren't quite right, then working with teams to fix the underlying issues and build something more sustainable. A big part of that is connecting the detail to what actually matters to the business. That means working closely with developers, content teams, and stakeholders so SEO is properly integrated rather than treated as a separate channel. Spending time in-house gave me a clearer view of how that works in practice, across day-to-day trading, internal priorities, and real decision making.

More recently, I've been building and shipping products using AI outside of client work: a suite of SEO tools and a published iOS app. It started as a way to test what I could build without an engineering background, but it's made me a more useful person to have in the room when clients are trying to figure out what AI actually means for their search strategy.

BEYOND CONSULTING

Building with AI

Alongside client work, I've spent the past year building with AI to see what's actually possible as a practitioner with domain knowledge but no engineering background. A suite of SEO tools and a published iOS app, both built using Claude Code and shipped to real users.

SEO Tools Suite

Seven browser-based SEO tools built with Claude Code, each solving a workflow problem I kept running into.

ON-PAGE

Internal Linking Finder

Discovers internal linking opportunities across a site to strengthen topical authority and improve crawlability.

TECHNICAL

URL Status Checker

Bulk-checks HTTP status codes and redirect chains for any list of URLs, fast and without leaving the browser.

ON-PAGE

Schema Opportunity Finder

Identifies missing structured data opportunities on any page to boost rich-result eligibility in search.

TECHNICAL

GTM Inspector

Inspects tags, triggers, and variables firing on any URL to audit Google Tag Manager setups.

RESEARCH

Keyword Cluster

Groups keyword lists into semantic clusters automatically, making content planning faster and more strategic.

TECHNICAL

Robots.txt Validator

Validates robots.txt files, checks syntax, tests URL matching, and flags crawl-blocking mistakes.

TECHNICAL

AI Bot Access Tester

Tests whether AI crawlers can access a site by checking bot permissions and user-agent rules.

All tools built using Claude Code. No prior software engineering background.

iOS App: Exercise Snacks

APP STORE · IOS

Exercise Snacks: Desk Breaks

An iOS app that prompts office workers to take short movement breaks at regular intervals throughout the day. Based on research (Gao et al., 2024) showing brief bouts of bodyweight exercise reduce postprandial blood glucose by 21%, comparable to frequent walking breaks.

30 guided exercises with custom Lottie animations, three notification modes, streak tracking, and a gentle gamification system. Built to see how far Claude Code could take a non-engineer with strong domain knowledge.

Built with Expo / React Native using Claude Code. Designed, developed, and published independently.
